Leader's Line ...

Fishing or Catching?

BILL BOEHLERT, PRESIDENT

We have all heard that old saying "The fishing was great, but the catching was kind of slow." Back in the days before I started fly fishing, I always viewed that maxim as pure sophistry, just obscuring a lack of luck behind a witty smokescreen.

Now that I have converted to fly fishing, the logic is much clearer. The beautiful surroundings, the artistry of the cast, the whisper of the stream, the wind in the conifers—so many factors combine to make the fishing experience sublime in itself. Nevertheless, catching still adds a lot to the experience. So, why do some fishermen always seem to get the hookups?

Sometimes the difference between the guy catching and another who is just fishing is obvious. One stalks the spots carefully, examines the bugs on the rocks, takes the water temperature, and pumps fish stomachs. His flies are tied like works of art, and he casts them with precision. He analyzes each rise to determine what is being taken and how far below the surface. He has already studied what bugs hatch in that particular spot in that particular month. His systematic, methodical approach maximizes his success.

Other times, the difference between you (hypothetical "you" in this case) and the guy with the constantly bent rod are less obvious. He doesn't cast any better than you, his flies are tied in a similar fashion (or he might even be using yours!), he is equally casual approaching the stream and casting out the fly he tied on the night before, yet he keeps getting takes. You might be pulling identical streamers from a float tube, fishing the same sinking line and identical woolly buggers, yet the trout are yanking the rod out of his hands. Or perhaps you are in a boat together on Crowley, using identical midges at identical depths. But one indicator keeps diving while the other only indicates disinterest. What gives?

It seems that some folks are just "fishy." Whether it is karma from a previous existence, an innate oneness with the universe, or some strange soul-meld with the trout, these anglers almost always find a way to get fish to bite. It is an elusive quality, a je ne sais quoi attribute that no one can isolate or imitate. Those who possess it probably don't have much of a clue either, and just respond with "I would rather be lucky than good."

Until I figure it out, I will be sure to appreciate the beauty of the surroundings, the whisper of the stream, and all the other pleasures of fly fishing.

In the meantime, may you all have great fishing—and catching—this year.

Free Admission for Working Pasadena & Fred Hall Shows

RICK LONG & JOHN STINE, MEMBERS

The Fly Fishing Show will be held at the Pasadena Center on Saturday, March 3, 2012 and Sunday, March 4, 2012 from 9:00 AM to 5:30 PM. The Fred Hall Show will be held at the Long Beach Convention Center starting on Wednesday March 7, 2012 through Sunday, March 11, 2012 (Wednesday through Friday from 1:00 PM to 9:00 PM; Saturday from 10:00 AM to 9:30 PM and Sunday from 10:00 AM to 7:00 PM).

Volunteers are needed each day to help work three-hour or four-hour shifts in the morning, afternoon or evening. If you volunteer to work the show, you will get in free! Please contact: Rick Long at 310-375-6900 or email vglong1@aol.com or John Stine at 562-431-2817 or email jmastine@verizon.net

Teaching the Teachers

MARSHALL BISSETT & TIM LAWSON
FFF SWC CASTING COMMITTEE CO-CHAIR

A reminder that the FFF Certified Casting Instructor Program, Pasadena Casting Club and Long Beach Casting Club will present four two-hour workshops designed to help local Club members teach the basics of fly casting at their annual casting classes. The focus will be on teaching casting to beginners and taught by FFF Certified Instructors.

The workshops will be held on four consecutive Saturdays from 9:00–11:00 AM: February 4 & 11 at Pasadena Casting Club; and February 18 & 25 at Long Beach Casting Club. Please let me know as soon as possible if you wish to attend. The cutoff for registration in the first class is January 21, 2012. Please call: Marshall Bissett at 818 259-1551 or by email at MB@TMB.COM.

Fly Fishing Big Bear Lake

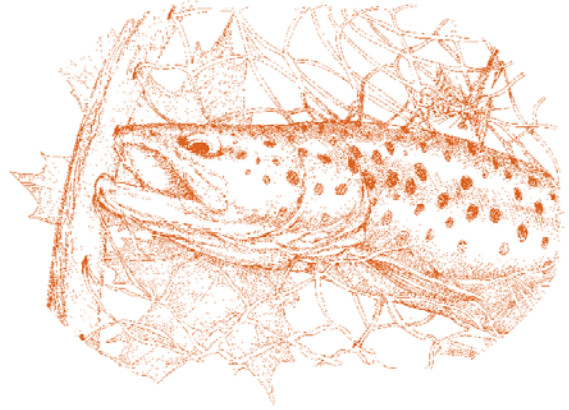

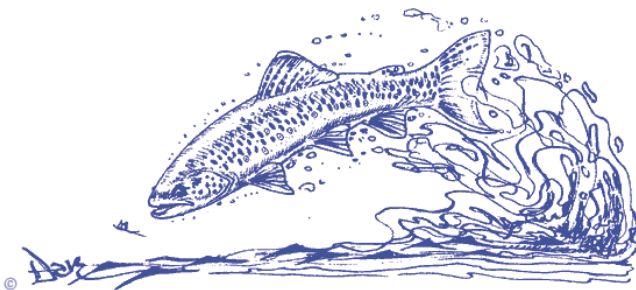

JIM THOMASON, 1ST VICE PRESIDENT

Our speaker this month will be Keith Kern detailing how to fish Big Bear Lake. Big Bear Lake is only a short drive away but feels like another world. It's large size and depth presents both challenges and opportunities for the fly fisher. It's fishable most of the year and holds a large variety of fish. Keith will provide the keys to unlocking its enormous potential.

In addition to learning how to fish the lake, Keith will discuss the history of the lake, types of fish in the lake, lake stratification, wind factors and a photo tour of the lake's best fishing areas. Much of this information is applicable to other lakes, including Crowley Lake, and will help your stillwater fishing anywhere you go.

Keith has fly fished Big Bear Lake for 33 years, guiding professionally for 11 years. His flies are featured in local sporting goods stores throughout Big Bear. He has authored 2 books on DVD: FLY FISHING BIG BEAR LAKE and FISHING BIG BEAR LAKE, which will be available at the meeting. Keith has extensive experience float tube fishing full sink lines and shared this information via seminars with fly fishing clubs around the Southland. In addition to fishing Big Bear Lake, Keith has over 30 years experience fly fishing the San Bernardino Mountains, Eastern Sierra and the Southern Golden Trout Wilderness.

Big Bear area has lots to offer so plan on attending this presentation to make your next trip there more productive.

Club Trips for 2012

EDDIE MADRID, 2ND VICE PRESIDENT

This January's outing will be our second trip to Owens River #2 near Bishop and hosted by Yash Iseda.

PRE-TRIP ACTIVITIES:

Trip leaders; please make an effort to identify 2 to 3 flies that would be useful for the trip. In addition, consider having a fly tying session on Thursday after the Pre-Trip Meeting.

Trip locations and dates are subject to change. Please monitor Target Talk for the latest information. Pre-Trip Meetings held at the clubhouse at 7:00 PM. If you would like to host any other future outing, please contact Eddie at 562-537-9618 or netboy3@verizon.net

A Gift That Keeps on Giving

RICK HILLES, PAST PRESIDENT

LBCC members have a great reputation for their generosity. Many of you give freely of your time, talent and treasure on behalf of the club. I suppose some of us like to give something back in return for the valuable education and camaraderie we have experienced. Some just like teaching others. Eventually all of us find a way of doing our share even when it involves 'paying it forward' for the benefit of new or future members.

What if you could give the club a gift that would keep on giving indefinitely, even long after you have passed on to that perfect trout stream in paradise; a gift that would provide a quiet reminder each year that you cared enough to make a difference?

About eighteen months ago one of our board members, Howard Uller and I began to explore the idea of establishing an endowment fund for the club. It seemed like a good idea: a way for members to provide an enduring gift to the club; a way for the club to have a modest source of income to offset increases in expenses.

Of course the idea raises lots of questions, so we recruited a team of people (Gary Spencer, Joe Gustaff, Rich Garrett and Mick Woodbury) with financial, legal and business experience to help. And we collected lots of copies of plans from other non-profit organizations. The main source of guidance came from Howard who brings a rich and varied career of fund raising and endowment experience.

Eventually we came up with a proposal, presented it to the board and they approved it in January 2011. Then we discussed it with the club's past presidents and received their enthusiastic endorsement. I think the only complaint was wishing that we had done it years ago.

The following is general information about the fund. The purpose of the fund is to provide for the long term funding and financial stability of the Long Beach Casting Club which owns the fund and has ultimate authority and control over all property in the Fund, and the income derived from it. The Board establishes rules, procedures, and policies for the operation and administration of the fund and your president appoints a committee to administer the fund.

The fund operates under specific guidelines and procedures. The fund is a restricted fund. That means only the net investment earnings (interest and dividends) from the fund may be used by the club for operational costs. The fund's net investment earnings will be transferred to an operations account of the club on a quarterly basis at the discretion of the board. The capital gains will be reinvested into the fund's principal. A withdrawal of principal may be considered only under circumstances in which the future survival of the club is at risk. A withdrawal of principal must be unanimously approved by the Board, as well as by a majority of members of the club at a special meeting convened as specified in the Bylaws of the Long Beach Casting Club.

A seven member Endowment Committee oversees and administers the fund. Members will serve for indefinite terms but will be reviewed and appointed annually by the President. The committee's goals are: to foster the growth of the Fund by means of promoting donations; to assure the conservation of principle and to generate a reliable and reasonable rate of long term net investment earnings. The committee consists of Rick Hilles and Howard Uller as co-chairs and Joe Gustaff, Rich Garrett, Mick Woodbury, Kathy Kim and Gary Spencer.

The investment strategy for the fund will focus on conservative and moderate risk investments. Consideration will not be given to aggressive strategies associated with profit maximization and market timing using short-term and/or speculative investments. The Committee will be given flexibility within the above guidelines to use their expertise and experience towards the achievement of the fund's investment goals.

No conflicts of interest will be allowed. Under no circumstances shall any endowment committee member, member of the board of Directors, or any member of the club be permitted to gain any benefit or profit, directly or indirectly, from the management, maintenance, or existence of the fund, including, but not limited to any fee, referral fee, or receipt of benefits in kind.

If at some future time the Long Beach Casting Club merges with any other club, all the provisions in respect to the Endowment Fund would apply to the merged club. If the LBCC should ever be dissolved without any lawful successor, the fund, including both principal and interest to date, shall be distributed as specified under the club's Articles of Incorporation.

The committee plans to do several things promote donations to the fund; they involve regular articles in TargetTalk, educational/informational presentations at monthly business meetings three times a year, as well as at the annual membership meeting. We also plan to have an annual or semi-annual breakfast seminar promoting estate planning/financial planning and the club's endowment fund.

We know that it sounds like a long story and a lot of detail. But the concept is simple: to make a gift to the club that will live on in perpetuity. If you would like to make a cash donation or a bequest from your estate, talk to any member of the Endowment Committee.

You will find an Endowment Fund Pledge Form on page 11 of this edition of Target Talk.

On the River Clinic

JOE LIBEU, PAST PRESIDENT

As part of the Long Beach Casting clubs continuing education, join us for 3 nights of and educational experience geared to the individuals that wish to gain overall fly fishing knowledge. You will be introduced to entomology, stream structure, casting applications, short and long line presentation, reading the water, fly selection, how to organize your fly box and basic knots. The classroom dates are Wednesdays, February 8, 15, 22 with sessions starting at 7:00 PM.

We will then take the knowledge you have gained in class and apply it to a Lower Owens weekend outing where you will receive individual instructions. The date for this excursion will be the weekend of February 25–26.

The On the River Clinic is lead by Joe Libeu who is a licensed guide, Master Casting Instructor and owner of Sierra Pacific Fishing Adventures. Joe has been fishing the Lower Owens since 1975 and considers this watershed to be his home waters.

The on the River Clinic is for Long Beach Casting Club members only.

For any additional information or to sign up for the clinic please call me, Joe Libeu at 310-749-6671 or by email at Fishlgtf@ix.netcom.com.

A White Elephant is Stomping Your Way!!!

JEFF SADLER, SUNSHINE COMMITTEE

Give us your Tired, your Poor, your Humble Masses... OF FLY FISHING STUFF!

Yes, once again it is time for Joe, Mark, Dan, and Jeff to make fools of themselves, but don't laugh too loudly, we have ways of getting even.

The White Elephant Auction and Clam Chowder-Fest is upon us and this time it arrives on Thursday, March 29, at 7:00 PM. It is never too late to donate that brand new Sage TCR rod you can't cast or the fly fishing tie your brother-in-law gave you for Christmas. Have a 100 year supply of pheasant tails? Donate half for the auction, clean out the closet, make your spouse happy. Please hold donations until at least February, we're out of room.

BUY STUFF, bring money, bring lots and lots of money, big checks (no credit cards). Replace that rusty old rod, reel, or buy a new fly fishing tie, or whatever.

"Double, double toil and trouble, Fire burn and cauldron bubble."

Indulge in the Sunshine Secret Recipe delicious chowder (apparently the clam lived for one more year).

Again, donations will be accepted but mostly come out and have fun.

Relax, Relax Already...

JEFF SADLER, PAST PRESIDENT

The Green River in Utah just keeps on rolling by and you should be there, April 25-29.

Check in with Marriott's for reservations.

- ❖ 5 nights at the beautiful Red Canyon Lodge.
- ❖ 2 Guided days with Trout Creek Flies (lunch and flies included).
- ❖ 2 days walk and wade fishing on the 7 mile river side trail.
- ❖ All for approximately $760 (Does not include transportation, meals, licenses, tips, etc.)

For more information call Jeff Sadler at 310-377-3868 or by email at fotofish@verizon.net. For reservations contact Brandt at Marriott's at 800-543-0282.

So relax already...

Maggie Merriman's Entomology Workshop

JOHN VAN DERHOOF, EDITOR

On Saturday, March 24, 2011 join Maggie Merriman from 9:00 AM until 1:00 PM at the Long Beach Casting Club for her 15th Annual Basic Entomology Workshop for fly fishers.

You will learn how to "Match the Hatch" and Maggie stresses the use of common English names and not the biological "Latin" names many associate with entomology, so you can leave your *Acroneuria californica*s at home.

The cost for the workshop is $50.00 and you must Pre-Register for the workshop by March 17, 2011 by mailing the fee to: Maggie Merriman, 19791 Coastline Lane, Huntington Beach, CA 92648, or you can call her at 714-969-5829.

New Beginnings: The LBCC Conservation Committee

STEVE BLAIR,
CONSERVATION COMMITTEE CHAIRPERSON

The word conservation can mean different things to people. For the LBCC and our new Conservation Committee, it includes helping trout, steelhead and salmon populations stay healthy or improve in what may be your favorite stream or river. The Committee's mission is "to promote conservation of freshwater salmonids in southern California, educate its members and the public on salmonid conservation issues and to present opportunities for taking informed action."

The committee will focus on southern California's flowing waters, but will cover all of California. Our goals include providing members with volunteer opportunities, information on conservation initiatives and recovery efforts, and even information on trout and steelhead biology.

Opportunities for members may include helping with stream restoration efforts or fish counts to help local steelhead make their trips to the ocean (yes, there are local steelhead), teaching kids about fishing, writing letters to congress to help remove a dam on a river, or helping with a simple river clean-up. The hope is to provide you with opportunities to get involved in the fight to help make a positive difference in trout, steelhead and even salmon populations.

We hope to develop collaborations with Trout Unlimited, CalTrout, California Department of Fish & Game, National Marine Fisheries as well as grass roots organizations like Friends of the LA River, RSC Conservation and others. There are many ways to help, much to learn, and opportunities galore to help our favorite salmonid friends. Stay tuned for more detailed information at monthly meetings, the Target Talk or the website on how to get involved. Also, if you have any river conservation projects you'd like us to get involved with, feel free to contact me anytime.

Thanks for your time and if you want to volunteer or have any questions feel free to contact me at 562-519-0212 or goblair@yahoo.com.

Welcome Our New Members

NANI BLYLEVEN,
MEMBERSHIP SECRETARY

The Board of Directors on January 9, 2012 unanimously accepted the following applications for membership:

- ❖ Stephen Beaton, Corona del Mar
- ❖ Lyman Burgmeier, Cypress
- ❖ Peter Debellis, Irvine
- ❖ Terry Domae, Cerritos
- ❖ Jim Garvey, San Pedro
- ❖ Hunter Gaspar, Rancho Palo Verdes
- ❖ Greg Holm, Torrance
- ❖ Bob Kumamoto, Rancho Palo Verdes

Please welcome all our new members at LBCC functions. Encourage them to volunteer with many of our activities throughout the year.

Please note that, in order to receive your Membership Packet with your Badge, Roster and other LBCC items; you must attend a monthly meeting.

Fly of the Month: WD-40

JOHN VAN DERHOOF, EDITOR

I know winter is almost over and it is time to start focusing on mayflies and caddis but you may be making a serious mistake. If you fish anywhere this spring or early summer it is likely to have abundant, hatching populations of Midges and Baetis and the WD-40 is one pattern that needs to be with you. Can you say the Owens (Upper and Lower), the Green, the San Juan, the Colorado and several dozen more I failed to mention? Of course you can...

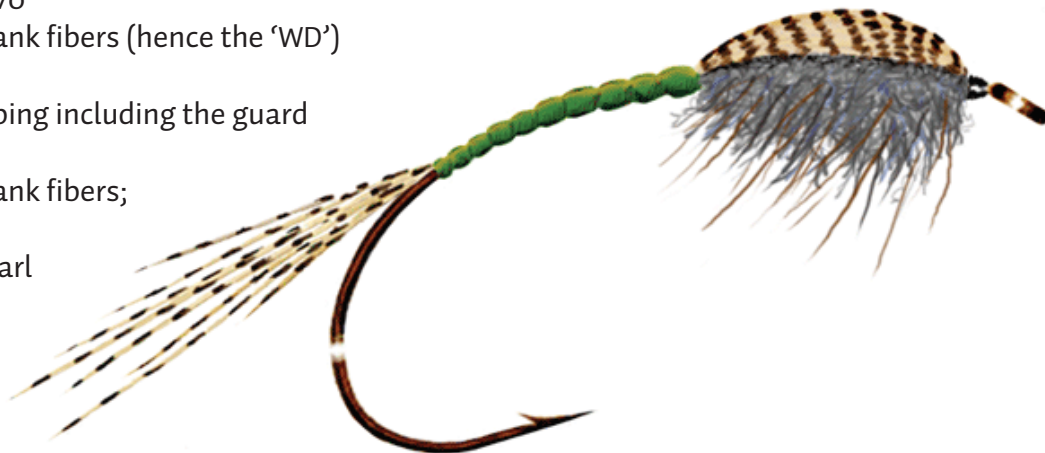

Spring is a day to day occurrence in the High Country. Winter continues to hang on with cold blustery conditions and the WD-40 is still a must have for these colder hatch conditions. The fly, invented by Mark Engler (also referenced as John) for use on the Frying Pan River in Colorado where large Midges and lots of Baetis mayflies are a preferred food source for the river's trout population. However the WD-40 is quite versatile in imitating other species of insects depending on the color, size and style that you tie. It is a good idea to carry the fly in several different colors to match local conditions including tan, black, pink, red and gray beyond the olive shown here. Vary the sizes to include a range of #16 down to #20.

This pattern has been around since the '80s and because of its popularity it has proffered more variations than you could shake a stick at. What is being presented to you is the original pattern as best as I can determine and it still, according to many, is one the best. You can add a bit of flash to the body or the wing case through the use of Krystal Flash or similar materials or add some weight and impart a jiggling action by adding a bead head. Still other variations include adding a wing—in particular a short, upright emerging wing.

Fishing it dead drift with an indicator or a dropper dry fly is my favorite method of using the WD-40. Be sure to complete your drift and allow the imitation to rise through the water column like an emerging insect or you will be missing about 40% of your strikes. Continue to retrieve the fly slowly for a short distance before your next presentation and drift. Fishing the WD-40 in this fashion is a great way to spend the day.

Materials for tying the WD-40:

Hook:	Midge emerger style such as a Tiemco #2487, size #16–20
Thread:	Olive 6/0 or 8/0
Tail:	Wood duck flank fibers (hence the 'WD')
Body:	Thread
Thorax:	Muskrat dubbing including the guard hairs
Wing case:	Wood duck flank fibers; can also substitute pearl kystal flash
Head:	Same as body or black

Tying instructions for the WD-40

1. The WD-40 is simple to tie and very effective fly to use. Place your hook in the vise in the standard fashion. Attach your tying thread just behind the headspace and evenly wind down the shank to a point where the thread is directly over the point of the barb. Remove a clump of about 4 to 8 fibers, depending on the size of the fly, from a wood duck flank feather or substitute. Tie them in so that they extend beyond the bend and are about the length of the shank. Do not trim the butt ends as they will be used for the wing case.
2. Smoothly wind the body using your tying thread. I like to spin the thread counter-clockwise every 8 to 10 wraps to keep it flat and untwisted. The body should be a thin, smooth, slightly cigar shaped and extend about one-half to two-thirds the length of the shank.
3. Before you proceed to the thorax dubbing fold back the butts of the tail and add any additional wood duck fibers you need in order to create the size of the wing case that you want. Or if you want a flash back style, remove the tail butts and tie in the flash material. Your thread should now be at the beginning of the thorax.
4. Thickly apply muskrat, including the guard hairs, to your thread to form the dubbing. For an even shaggier appearance you can use a dubbing loop. Wind the dubbing forward to the headspace evenly, avoiding overlap that could weaken the fly, and tie off at the headspace.
5. Pull the wood duck fibers or flash material forward over the top of the thorax giving them a slight twist to help keep them together. Tie the fibers down securely with a few thread wraps. Form a small, neat head and whip finish. Using your bodkin, pick out the underside of the thorax creating a hair and dubbing legs/hackle and your WD-40 is complete.

Grand Slam Opportunity! Pesca Maya, Ascension Bay - May 25-31, 2012

Sierra Pacific Fishing Adventures is pleased to host a new salt-water destination for 2012: Pesca Maya in Ascension Bay offers a rare opportunity for you to target Permit, Tarpon, Bonefish & Snook all in the same week. Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula is undoubtedly one of the best permit destinations worldwide. The fish population is probably second to none. The expansive flats from Boca Paila to Ascension Bay hold tremendous numbers of permit, and it is not uncommon to see dozens of them in a single day's angling.

Ascension Bay is relatively close and easy to get to and Pesca Maya is a beautiful resort with spacious, well-appointed rooms and is situated on a remote private beach-offering breathtaking views and spectacular sunsets. Additionally, Pesca Maya has a team of very experienced and professional fly fishing guides.

$3,065 per person based on double occupancy

Trip includes 6 nights & 5 days of fishing; Spacious oceanfront accommodations with A/C; Private boat with experienced guide; All meals and beverages; Ground transportation. Not included: Air transportation to & from Cancun, Mexico and gratuities for guide and staff. Space is limited to 10 anglers so reserve your spot now!

Notes from the Pond

JEFF GROSS, CAPTAIN

Hello Campers, the Southwest Tournament will be held at our club Saturday and Sunday February 11-12. Please show your support by volunteering to help. Here is a list of the many categories we need members' help with: Set up, score keeping, targets, lunch for Saturday & Sunday, dinner for Saturday evening, and clean up Sunday afternoon. Please call me at 562-496-2435 to sign up.

We also need help with cleaning the pond on Saturday, Feb. 4. If the pond isn't your thing, you can pitch in by cleaning the clubhouse.

Here's a hot tip for y'all. Sunday, March 18 is the Director's Handicap breakfast and cast. The cast will be very unique. Come on down to see what we've done.

See you at the pond.
