NEWSLETTER OF THE LONG BEACH CASTING CLUB, ESTABLISHED 1925

JANUARY 2022

WWW.LONGBEACHCASTINGCLUB.ORG

Leader's Line...

Happy New Year from Your President

STEVE JONES, PRESIDENT

appy Holidays to all. It feels good to finally get some rain here, and some snow up in the mountains. It also feels good to socialize together again, and associate with one another at the Clubhouse. We continue to be a very active club, with a lot going on, thanks to the great members we have and their willingness to give of their time and talents.

The Venison Stag turned out great, thanks to an army of willing helpers at the Club. It felt great to see everyone, and I wanted to thank both those who put this event together and those who came and participated. Our Beginning Fly Tying Class has been a big success and is the envy of many other fly fishing clubs. We now have the Fly Tying Forum in person at the Club on Wednesday nights. In January, we will be installing a new handrail on the porch, and fixing some water damage on the bottoms of the vertical posts. We appreciate all those who help us to keep our wonderful facility in tiptop condition.

We should be finishing up our new website in January. Many have been putting in long hours, trying to make this new website the best it can possibly be.

The Nooner Lunches are in full swing on the third Wednesday of each month. Our monthly meetings are now at the Clubhouse. If you prefer to watch them on Zoom, we still have that option, but we are hoping we can see you at the Club with your mask on.

We've had quite a few new members join the Club in the past month. We are excited that our membership continues to grow. Yes, as a club we are doing great! Let's keep up the good work as we move into the coming year.

Steph Albano: Facilitating the Female Fly Fishing "Fin"atic

BOB MAYFIELD, 1ST VICE PRESIDENT

Steph Albano is owner and operator of Finatical Flyfishing. Finatical Flyfishing has a unique business model as it is a fly fishing travel business for women, run by women.

Steph spent the bulk of her career at Carquest Auto Parts. She has held positions in national marketing, as Director of Distribution Center Operations and as a Financial Analyst helping store owners with their businesses. A mentor of Steph's in Denver encouraged her to strike out on her own and in 2019 she launched her own small business consulting company, Hatched Concepts. In May of 2021 she launched Finatical Flyfishing.

As an avid 'weekend warrior' on the river most of her life, Steph spends the best of her summer free time on the Henry's Fork in Idaho. Steph has traveled and fished in Chile, Alaska, the Bahamas, Mexico, Cuba, the Seychelles, Belize, Christmas Island, Hawaii and throughout the western United States.

As Steph traveled to many of these remote locations and looked around on her home water of the Henry's Fork, she began to see more women on the water. Her fly fishing experiences taught her that signing up for an international trip as the only woman in a group of twelve men is not always an ideal situation.

Steph's firsthand experiences and those of her friends led her to believe that she could create flyfishing trips run by women for women. Thus, the birth of Finatical Flyfishing. Through this model she is seeing women enjoying new friendships, personal growth and the camaraderie that goes along with it. Finatical Flyfishing offers an alternative to serve the growing women's flyfishing market.

There are now many resources to help fly fishing women to grow locally and online. Finatical Flyfishing offers the chance to explore novel places and have new adventures in a safe environment, with the best guides and professionals in the area.

Please join us January 27 at 7:00 pm in the Clubhouse, where Steph will be presenting live. We will also broadcast the live presentation via Zoom.

Accolades to the Singing Chef and his Talented Team: Venison Stag 2021

MICK WOODBURY, PAST PRESIDENT

The December 2021 Venison Stag Dinner is now history, and for those of you who missed it, sorry to have to say this, but you really missed it! It was a great evening.

Guests entered the Club to a festive Christmas tree and beautifully decorated tables. Rick Hilles' infamous punch is always a hit, as were the appetizers ably served by roaming waiters.

Head chef John Lincoln took a time-out from the kitchen to join his ukulele group, the Kukui Nuts, playing music and singing. Not only is John a great chef, he also carries a good tune.

The food, as always, was superb. John and his kitchen crew manage to outdo their previous performances every year. Kudos to Dan Luas, Eddie Madrid, Conley Dees, Mike Tabe, Randy Teeple and Thea Lincoln.

It took three days in the kitchen to prep everything just right. There wasn't a can or box to be found anywhere; everything was made from scratch. The menu looked like this:

APPETIZERS

- Norwegian Smoked Salmon served on toasted baguette
- Mahogany Chicken Wing with Teriyaki glaze
- Bruschetta with fresh tomatoes, garlic and basil

SALAD

Roasted Romaine Lettuce with homemade Caesar dressing

MAIN COURSE

- Oven-Roasted Prime Rib with creamy horseradish sauce
- Three-Cheese Scalloped Potatoes
- Tri-Colored Julienned Carrots with light buttery mint sauce

DESSERT

Pineapple Sorbet with fresh pineapples, raspberry & sugar cookie

The next time you see John, Thea, Dan or any of those on the team, thank them for super job. Also for the team who deep-cleaned the Clubhouse, Mark Flo and team who did the decorating, Rick Hilles who washed dishes until the cows came home and Bruce Teske who cleaned the kitchen.

Even if you weren't there, tell them you heard it was great (because it was). It was a fun and tasty night. The tariff? Just $20! And if the menu wasn't enticing enough, there was a drawing for door prizes—lots of them. If you haven't yet enjoyed a Venison Stag, put it on your list for 2022. Seating is limited.

Venison Stag a Success!

BOB MAYFIELD, 1ST VICE PRESIDENT

Venison Stag 2021 was a success! Over 45 people attended. It was exciting to be in the Clubhouse and enjoy fellowship and food; there is nothing like being able to enjoy talking and laughing together face to face.

I was also pleasantly surprised at the number of new members who attended and got involved in this event. We were treated to some great live music, hors d'oeuvres and a delicious prime rib dinner, all of which would have been impossible without the leaders and crew who made it happen! Thanks to all and if I missed any of you in the lineup below, please accept my apologies.

Our Zoom Fly Tying Continues...

WAYNE SAKAGUCHI, MEMBER

Our video demo meetings have been going on for several weeks. We have added a half-hour Q&A before the video demo for participants, which has been very informative.

The breakout sessions have also been helpful after the video, with our volunteers answering questions and giving other tips. On top of that, after the breakout sessions, John Van Derhoof and Joe Libeu have been sharing other patterns and how to fish them. We have been receiving photos of great-looking flies.

Again, LBCC would like Dan Oliver for doing the videos, John and Joe for their expert advice, JoAnn Bosowski for her artwork and all the volunteers to make this a success.

Here are the photos:

Rest in Peace

ROB PETERSON, TARGET TALK EDITOR

s many of you are aware, two of our members passed away in November, as well as the wife of one of our sponsors. The news didn't reach us until after the December issue of Target Talk was published, so I want to take this opportunity to acknowledge their passing here.

GEORGE SIEWARD: George was a Club member since 2009 and on the Board for years as Facilities Coordinator. He was a character, and will be missed. There is a "Go Fund Me" link ("Trying to Get Jersey Boy Back Home") to raise money to get him home to the East Coast, for a family and friends celebration.

You can send condolences to:

Mrs. Debbie Sieward 2601 E. Victoria Street #300 Rancho Dominguez, CA 90220

CHUCK WHEELER: Chuck was a member since 2000 and took our Beginning Fly Tying Class. He had to withdraw from active membership last year due to dementia. He too will be missed. In lieu of flowers, send donations to: The Placentia Presbyterian Church or The Salvation Army of Orange County.

You can send condolences to:

Mrs. Verna Wheeler 407 Ruby Drive Placentia, CA 92870-4825

LINDA CUMMINS: Linda was the wife of Mike "Poppy" Cummins. They started the legendary "Red Shed" Fly Shop (an LBCC sponsor) in their living room in Peck, Idaho in 2002. She was known for her kindness and the great cookies she served at Spey casting sessions.

Salmon/ Steelhead Harvest Report!

COLIN KUMABE, PAST PRESIDENT

Salmon and steelhead harvest reports can be done online via the CDFW web page. Harvest reporting for 2021 is open from January 1 to April 1, 2022. You have to report even if you released all your fish or didn't catch any.

Is the Club on Your Christmas list?

MICK WOODBURY, PAST PRESIDENT

In just a few days it will be Christmas, and the time for gifts of appreciation to the ones we love. Is the Club something you love? If you've enjoyed a Club trip, a fly tying lesson, a Nooner Luncheon, the Stag, a rod building class or any of the monthly speakers this year, perhaps a gift of appreciation is appropriate.

There are many excellent reasons to give; some altruistic, some mercenary and some personally rewarding. All three are valid.

Unselfish regard for others is altruistic. Giving so the Club stays strong is altruistic. Taking advantage of tax deductions is dollars-and-cents savvy. Giving to support and be connected to one of the finest fishing clubs in the country is fulfilling. Giving to enjoy Club activities is satisfying.

Whatever the reason, or reasons, your gift is tax deductible as a 501 (c) (3) donation. Any amount will help. For amounts of $250 or more, you will receive a letter for tax purposes.

Send check to "The Treasurer" at Long Beach Casting Club, P.O. Box 90035, Long Beach, CA 90809-0035. Mark check "Endowment Fund".

Streamside Etiquette

A Matter of Space...

GUY MANNING, LBCC PAST MEMBER

Ultimately, Fly-fishing is something of a reclusive sport. The time we spend on-stream is mostly spent with ourselves. Of course going fishing with our buddies is often much of the attraction for the trips we take, but it still comes down to the lone individual involved with their own thoughts. One person against the fish; one person against the river; one person against nature. It is therefore fitting that the rules of streamside etiquette reinforce the solitary quality of our sport.

These rules exist as a principle of common courtesy and respect between human beings, and as a means of protecting the solitude each of us attempts to obtain when we are on the stream. In their most basic form the rules of etiquette can be summed up by "The Golden Rule", in that we should consider if our actions, performed by another to us, would disturb or adversely affect our enjoyment of that moment on the stream. Space is the key here. Allow others the space to enjoy the sport. Crowding is akin to invading, and is considered ill-mannered.

Here are some precepts to consider when you are looking for your bit of solitude:

The first person to be fishing any particular water feature (run, riffle, flat, pool etc.) in effect owns that feature from head to tail. If you wish to fish it you must go to another area until they are done or, you may choose to sit and watch until they are done. The latter choice assumes they plan to give the spot up to begin with. The exception to this rule is wet fly fishing for Salmon and Steelhead in which case the pool is rotated (as discussed below). Never get into a stretch of water that is already being fished without asking the permission of the person fishing it. Never cast into a stretch of water that is already being fished without first asking. These rules also apply to an angler who is studying a stretch of stream or resting a stretch of stream. That person arrived first; it should be considered their water.

The person fishing upstream has the right of way and should be given a wide berth by the person fishing downstream. Fishing upstream usually means dry fly and wading against the current. The person fishing downstream, usually fishing wet, is in more of a position to be seen by the fish (downstream fishing will cover and disturb more water than upstream), and therefore has a greater chance of spooking the fish. If the downstream angler works in too close to the upstream angler, he can put the fish down or spook them so they scatter both up and downstream. One spooked fish can spook others as it darts into their holding lies. This can ruin the fishing for both participants. The ideal action in this situation is for the downstream angler to get out of the water well above the upstream angler (leaving a generous amount of un-fished water for the upstream angler) and quietly go around to a spot downstream of the upstream angler.

If two people are fishing upstream and the one further downstream is moving upstream faster than the other, then that person is to get out of the water and move well upstream of the slower angler (leaving them plenty of un-fished water). It would be considered extremely gracious if you were to let the slower angler know that you were moving around them and how far you planned to go before re-entering the water.

When near other anglers you must wade as quietly as possible and make every attempt to pass sufficient distance from the angler and their fish. When walking along a bank, make every effort to walk well away from the water that is being fished so as not to spook the fish with your presence. Choose your clothing colors for the area you will be fishing. Try to wear something that blends in with the natural surroundings. White, highly reflective, or loud colors will stand out to the fish and could put them down for you and others.

If you are fishing a small stream (less than 100 feet across) never start fishing directly across the stream from someone else, they could be working the opposite shore that you just walked up to. A good rule of thumb is to stay at least twice the length of a long cast away from someone else on a small stream.

Now some of these rules bend to the situation. If you are fishing with a close friend then your friend may not care if you are both in the same pool. Most of the time though you will probably be leap-frogging your way up or down the stream, alternating holding waters between the two of you. If you are on an extremely crowded stretch of water then the distances between anglers will diminish. The important thing in crowded situations is to allow as much room as possible between the two of you, and to not disturb the other person's fish. If the other person has a fish on, and needs to come up or downstream into your area, it is acknowledged that you should reel in and yield to the person with a fish on.

As mentioned above, the only time it is acceptable to cast into a stretch of water already being fished is on a large river when pursuing Salmon or Steelhead. In this case you are usually fishing wet and casting quartered downstream. When others are waiting to fish the same water; the practice is to make 1 cast, fish it out, and then take a step or 2 downstream. You then repeat the sequence and move a few steps down stream again. You keep this up until you reach the end of the fishable section. After you have proceeded downstream far enough (100-200 feet, or as the conditions allow) the next person in line to fish may start doing the same routine above you. In this way under the right conditions on a large river, you might have numerous people fishing the same stretch of water. If someone hooks a fish, the others are expected to reel in while the fight is on (remember these are big fish). If the fish is landed, the angler is expected to leave the river and go to the rear of the line. If the angler loses the fish, everyone returns to their former spots and continues the cast-fish-step downstream routine. The angler who lost the fish is allowed to continue fishing. Once you reach the end of the fishable area, you return to the end of the line.

If you attempt to fish the exact same spot twice you may well be challenged by the people in line, so play fair and take those steps between your casts.

You also want to consider the space between you and any other anglers when float-tubing. Here the problem is a bit different because the tuber may be constantly moving. You need to frequently check behind you, to assure that you will not cross anyone's fishing area. Realize that many anglers in tubes use sinking line, and understand that as much as 40-60 feet of their line is subsurface and that you need to stay away from it (crossing above a sinking line is the same as crossing over a floating line). Tubers should be able to make an unobstructed cast in any direction without having to fish around someone.

When tubing, do not forget to watch out for the shore angler. Getting too close to the people fishing from shore is considered an invasion of their water. It can also be dangerous if you get hit with a misguided weight, hook, or spinning lure. Again, etiquette comes down to a matter of space.

As for socializing on the stream: Any one may or may not talk to another, if they so wish. It is not considered rude to greet another angler or ask how the fishing goes. It is also not considered rude to pass by without a word. What is considered rude is to engage the other person in a long-winded bragging fest. Since fly-fishing is not a competitive sport, the other person will probably care little about how good an angler you think you are. The other angler would really rather fish. At the same time do not be afraid to share with others on the stream. Of particular importance is to help the beginners. A shared technique or particularly successful fly can go a long way towards keeping someone in the sport.

Lastly, stream etiquette demands that you treat the environment with respect. A sure way to anger many anglers is to litter the stream. Pick up all of your own litter and some of someone else's. Try to leave the stream cleaner than when you arrived. Choose the fly-

Security Measures for LBCC Zoom Monthly Meetings

BOB MAYFIELD, 1ST VICE PRESIDENT

s many of you are aware, in the last two years using Zoom, we have had a couple of unwanted intrusions into our meetings. While we were able to remove the offenders, they did have their moment. We don't want this to happen again.

To prevent these unwanted guests, and at the same time have our meetings open for all to enjoy, we are going to implement the following protocols for our monthly meetings.

- All participants will go into a waiting room. before the meeting, and will only be admitted if recognized by the meeting host. To be sure you are recognized by the host, make sure your name is part of your sign-in screen on your computer or on your Zoom account.
- The Zoom part of the meeting will be locked down, with no one admitted from the waiting room after 7:15 PM.
- If we have a Zoom Bomber who somehow gets past these security measures, the host will suspend the entire meeting, remove and report the intruder, and restart the meeting. If you wish to re-enter the meeting, you will have to log back into the meeting and go through the process of being admitted from the waiting room again.

Thanks for your understanding, as we work to make Zoom safe for us to use and enjoy at the Long Beach Casting Club. If you ever have a problem gaining admittance to our meetings, please let me know and I will make sure you have access to the next meeting. You can reach me at 714-392-2211, or by email at bob@impac-marketing.net.

fishing products that you buy by the impact they will have on the stream. Many items, like stick-on strike indicators should be avoided because they could end up coming off the line and become stream litter, or end up in a fish's stomach.

If you respect the other people's space and their right to the solitary experience, you will often be teaching others by example. The more we, as anglers, respect one another's space the more enjoyment we can expect from our time on the water.

COVID Relief Grant

on November 23, 2021, the Club was awarded a grant of $5,000 from the State of California, to be used for costs incurred as a result of the shutdown, and for compliance with the State's requirements for COVID-19 protocols. This grant was administered by the California Office of the Small Business Advocate ("CalOSBA") within the Governor's Office of Business and Economic Development ("GO-Biz").

The basic qualification for the grant was to be a non-profit organization which was impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. The grant requires that the club maintain proof of expenses during the pandemic for:

- Overhead: rent and utilities.
- Re-opening after being fully or partially closed due to state-mandated COVID-19 health and safety restrictions and business closures.
- Complying with COVID-19 federal, state or local guidelines for reopening with required safety protocols, including but not limited to equipment and personal protection supplies.

The Club paid for the following during the pandemic:

- Utilities: electricity, phone, water.
- Masks, hand sanitizers and dispensers for hand sanitizers.
- Equipment and subscriptions to conduct meetings and classes using Zoom.

Many thanks to Tom McGivern, Ed Alvarado, Bob Mayfield, Bob Allen and Steve Jones for assisting with the grant application.

Thanks to the 480+ members of the Club who paid dues. These expenses were covered and now reimbursed by the State. The Clubhouse is currently being used for activities; check the calendar. Plus, the Pond is always ready for practice casting. See you at the Pond!

Save the Date! 4th Annual Spey Tourney January 15-16, 2022

TOM OLSON, CO-CAPTAIN

Please see the below flyer. Our tournament is a friendly competition where we encourage and cheer for one another, from beginners to experts, Skagit to Long Belly.

In the past, we've had casters from the Golden Gate Club, Oregon and Washington. We are promoting the event to the Southwest Council, Spey Pages and a network of Spey casters who really enjoy visiting the Long Beach Casting Club.

We have a group of Spey casters meeting Saturday mornings for Spey Club Casts. On occasional Saturdays, we'll be setting up the buoy line we use for the tournament and teaching anyone who wants to learn.

If you have questions, please contact Tom Olson at 310-809-0409 or I've set up an email for the tournament lbccspeytournament@gmail.com.

Fly of the Month: Griffith's Gnat Emerger

JOHN VAN DERHOOF, EDITOR EMERITUS & PAST PREZ

Tis the season...to be midging! With the Club's first trip of 2022 to the Lower "O" I felt it would be a good idea to add another fly to the arsenal. If the weather is cold, raining, snowing and a bit breezy, then not too many insects (or humans...) will want to venture outside to play. Those that do are hardy and, unfortunately, small. So let's talk about an effective and easy fly to tie that the fish will eat: the Griffith's Gnat Emerger.

Midges and a few hardy mayflies like blue-winged olives (there are multiple genera and species of these, so be careful as to your identification) are about the only insects for fish to prey on during the winter months. Midge hatches like blue-winged olives can trigger exceptional feeding opportunities for trout. With large emergences, they can become an easy meal, but can also cause very picky eating habits in the fish. The fish more often than not want to see something that very closely mimics the Real McCoy in terms of size, color/value/hue and drift. They also want to find an easy meal—one that won't fly away while they try to eat it.

The Griffith's Gnat is very familiar to many anglers, and is actually an imitation of a midge mating cluster or "midge ball"—several midges clumped together, trying to procreate and make more midges, all while literally rolling across the surface like a ball. Sizes for the "Gnat" can range from a small of #20 up to #12. The bigger the midge or greater the number of midges trying to mate, the bigger the midge ball. These midge balls do not usually occur at the same time as a midge hatch, so the Griffith's Gnat may not be the best choice of fly.

The Griffith's Gnat Emerger is intended to be used during the hatch, and to imitate a midge that is still attached to its nymphal shuck and is having trouble or is unable to fly away. This is a fairly simple fly to tie, especially in small sizes, and I usually have Size #20—#24 with me when fishing in the winter and early spring (yup, keep that in mind Green River anglers!). I usually tie them in three color combinations: 1) olive thread with dark olive and silver rib, pale olive shuck and dark peacock Ice Dubbing thorax (shown); 2) tan thread with dark copper rib, orange/gold shuck and hare's ear Ice Dubbing thorax and 3) black with silver rib, dark dun shuck and black Ice Dubbing thorax. The hackle remains grizzly for all.

Hook: Tiemco #101 ring eye in sizes 18

to 24

Thread: Olive Veevus 12/0

Tail: Pale Olive Darlon or Zelon, sparse

Body: Thread with dark olive and silver extra small Ultra Wire

ribbing

Thorax: Dark Peacock Ice dubbing Head: Grizzly over the thorax

Instructions for tying the Griffith's Gnat Emerger:

- 1. Before we get into the pattern, let's talk about hook choices. I use a ring eye hook for all of my flies that are size 18 and smaller. Why? It's simple and, yeah, maybe a bit old school but what the heck—I'm old...the ring eye (straight eye) gives the hook more gap and in my opinion leads to better hooking ability in small sizes. Not really an issue in larger sizes. Why not use an up turned eye? First, I can't stand the way they look and second, I actually think their hooking ability is diminished, because when the hook is pulled tight the point of the hook rolls away from the fish—the exact opposite of a circle hook. Now, on to tying...
- 2. Place the hook in the vise and attach your thread at the headspace. Wind smoothly to the bend of the hook and select a sparse clump of Darlon or Zelon for the shuck. Tie in the shuck so that it points slightly downward. Remove a length of both the dark olive and silver wire rib and tie them in low, on the far side of the hook.
- 3. Now wind the thread smoothly up the shank of the hook, toward the beginning of the thorax. Taking care not to cross the two strands of ribbing, wind them forward to the thorax and tie both ends off. The ribbing wants to be equally spaced, as shown in the illustration. Select a nice grizzly hackle, and tie it in slightly into the area that will be occupied by the thorax, and with the dull side of the hackle facing forward.
- 4. Almost done. Apply the thorax dubbing to your thread very thinly and then wind the dubbing forward. Make the first turn of the thorax dubbing behind the hackle and the next in front of the hackle. Wind the dubbing forward to the headspace.
- 5. Wind the hackle with evenly spaced turns to the headspace and tie off. Depending on the size, this should require only 3 to 5, maybe 6 turns of hackle. Form a neat head and whip finish the thread. If you want the fly to sit lower in the film, which may be more natural but with less floatability, trim the hackle by cutting with the scissor points going into the hackle from the front of the fly leaving the hackle slightly "V'd" and not straight across the bottom.

6. Attach the fly to your tippet and proceed to catch fish!

Fly Tying Tip: Thread Tension

DAVE BOYER, MEMBER

necently I have seen some posts on social media, Complaining about breaking ceramic bobbin holder tubes while using GSP threads. The breakage is due to improper tension on the thread as you tie in your materials. This goes both for GSP threads and normal threads.

With non-GSP threads, you want the tension to be just at the breaking point of the thread. Experience will guide you on what that is, as you develop a 'feel'. But how do you put the maximum amount of tension on the thread without breaking your tools?

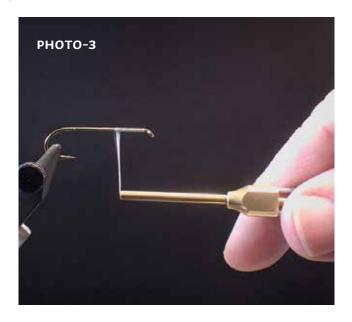

Easy. First, "palm" your bobbin holder, so you can squeeze the bobbin tightly enough to keep the thread from spooling off (PHOTO-1). Second, keep the tube parallel with the tension on the thread (PHOTO-2).

TARGET TALK

Tightening your thread wraps with the thread at 90 degrees to the tube (PHOTO-3) can either cause the thread to break prematurely, at a lower tension (non-GSP threads), or cause the bobbin holder tube to break/bend.

As you develop your skills, it becomes second nature to "palm" and pull parallel to get the best usage of your thread.
